

DO YOU WANT TO HELP YOUR COMMUNITY IMPACTED BY THE CREEK FIRE? Organize a Community Work Day

Sierra Resource Conservation District (RCD), Natural Resource Conservation Service (NRCS), Central Sierra Resiliency Fund and People Food and Land Foundation are teaming up to support communities affected by the Creek Fire.

Our collaborative group works together to provide community education, technical assistance, materials for best management practices (straw bales, woodchips, straw wattles, sandbags), volunteers, and coordination support for communities in high burn areas to mitigate erosion risks to roadways, home pads, watersheds, and public safety.

We encourage neighbors to come together to address priority erosion concerns in their community and learn more about mitigation measures and NRCS and RCD assistance. If you or someone you know want to bring together friends, family, and neighbors to help lead the local post-fire stewardship effort in an affected community, please contact us at resiliencyfund@sierrahistorical.org
